Women's History Month Display

Women's History month was celebrated in March with a display created by Librarian Suzanne Waddell that included the following new titles:

Heroines of Mercy Street: The Real Nurses of the Civil War

Ashley's War: The Untold Story of a Team of Women Soldiers on the Special Ops Battlefield

Band of Sisters: American Women at War in Iraq

Sisterly Love: Women of Note in Pennsylvania History

Shattering the Glass: The Remarkable History of Women's Basketball

Know Your Student Worker

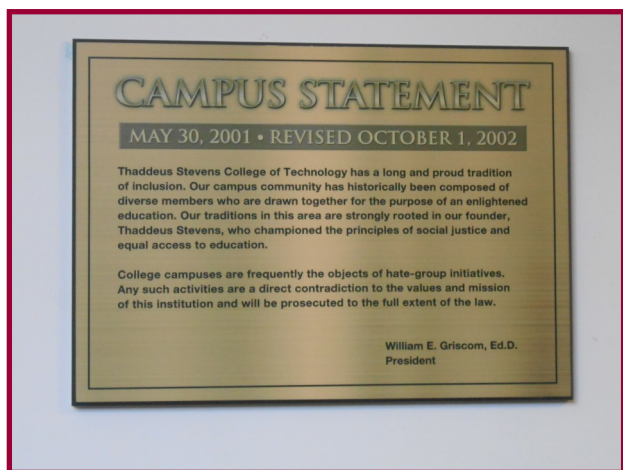

Tommy Tang

Tommy is in his first year of the Architectural Technology program at Stevens. Although he is currently a commuter, next year he is planning to live on campus.

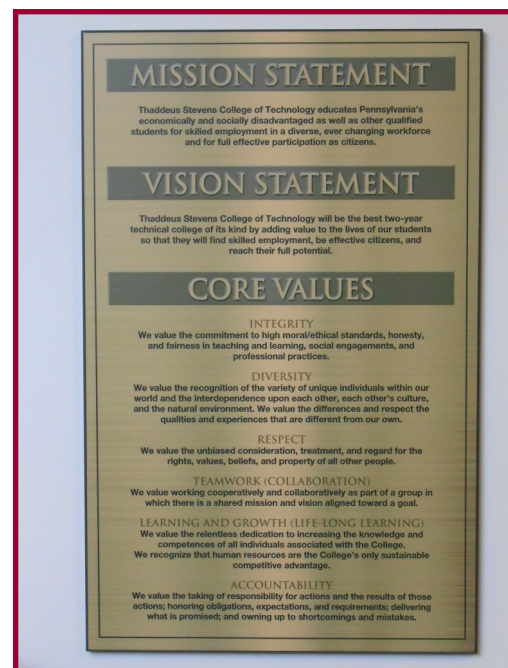

Tommy graduated from McCaskey High School in Lancaster; his interest in architecture was sparked when he took a CAD class in high school. He also played tennis for four years at McCaskey and loved it. In middle school, he was a member of the track team.

Tommy has two brothers and two sisters, all of whom are younger than he is; his brother, Brandon, is in the Architectural Technology program at Stevens, too.

When Tommy's not studying, he likes to read, play video games, and hang out with his friends.

New signage went up in the library outside the director's office. Now anyone who enters the library can readily familiarize themselves with the college's philosophy, including its campus statement, mission statement, vision statement, and core values. And it serves as a reminder to the campus community as a whole what Stevens College is about.

Focus on the Archives

Student workers Ryan Hale, DeSean Curry, and Travis Majors pose in the archives with some artifacts found during spring break project: bottles of sparkling cider from the college's 200th Anniversary in 2005.

When everyone on the library staff except Director Sharon McIlhenney decided to take off work the week of spring break, the student workers stepped up to keep the library running smoothly. One of their special projects during the week was to sort through materials in the Archives and to organize the rooms where these materials have been stored. The organizational process has been ongoing the past several years; bookshelves were acquired from the warehouse and shelving was recently bought to accommodate items. Now, thanks to the student workers' efforts, significant progress has been made in this project.

Open House

Library Director Sharon McIlhenney

Library Technician
Brenda Smith

Thaddeus Stevens College of Technology's Spring Open House was held on April 16, 2016. Library Director Sharon McIlhenney staffed a library information table at the MAC while Brenda Smith welcomed visitors to the library. Approximately 680 visitors were on campus for this event.

Our goal is to help you find the information you need at a time and place that's convenient for you. Our promise is to help you understand when information is needed, recognize where it is, and master methods to retrieve it.

Library Staff

Sharon McIlhenney - Director

Timothy Creamer - Librarian

Suzanne Waddell - Librarian

Brenda Smith - Library Technician

National Library Week was observed the week of April 10 - 16 this year. First sponsored in 1958, National Library Week is a time to promote the use and support of all types of libraries - school, public, academic, and special.

Featured Web Site - A Good Movie to Watch

<http://www.agoodmovietowatch.com>

The website, A Good Movie to Watch, wants to help its users who are looking for a good movie to watch but don't have a specific title in mind. How much time have you spent scrolling through the endless possibilities of your on-line provider? This website's mission is to save you time and effort while spotlighting amazing films that you may have missed but deserve your consideration.

One option for choosing your next film is by mood. Are you in the mood for something twisted? Then recommendations include Let the Right One In (2008) and I Saw the Devil (2010). Choose romantic as your mood and your options include The Spectacular Now (2013), Enough Said (2013), and About Time (2013).

As an alternative to determining your movie by mood, you can pick by genre: action, comedy, documentary, drama, family, horror, mystery, romance and scifi/fantasy.

It works by choosing films that are highly rated by both viewers and critics yet didn't make a huge splash at the box office. Then the website's independent staff handpicks titles for your viewing pleasure.

Creating an account allows you to dismiss movie suggestions, save favorites, or rate what you've seen.

A helpful feature of the site is that once your choice is made, it will reroute you to the most convenient on-demand provider such as Netflix, Hulu, or Amazon. Although, it's worth noting that if you don't want to pay for your movie, you can find many titles at your public library. Additionally, the Learning Resources Center has over 1,550 DVDs in its collection so there is a very good possibility you may find your next movie right here on campus.
